

Once upon a time the quiet country doctor was a respected member of the community who drove a horse and buggy

some things haven't changed.

The Hospital

And about those neighbours. They're an eclectic bunch: farmers, carpenters, beekeepers, horse breeders, school teachers, truck drivers, writers. This area is home to many established businesses and industries, a thriving artistic community, and an increasing number of telecommuters, consultants, and entrepreneurs conducting business from their electronically wired country homes.

The Neighbourhood

There's a lot that hasn't changed in the country. We still have fresh air, wide-open spaces, and neighbours you can count on. In town, people say hello, even if they don't know you — but they probably do. Perhaps you've met them at the golf club, or at your child's school, the Fall Fair, a town hall meeting, or the village library.

Mother Nature has been kind. Located along the crest of the Beaver Valley, and a part of the magnificent Niagara Escarpment, the area provides excellent opportunities to enjoy outdoor activities such as cross-country and downhill skiing, mountain biking, canoeing, birding, hiking the Bruce Trail, and rock climbing.

It's no surprise that our region is attractive to people “down-country” — in the greater Toronto area. It is only a 2-hour drive to Toronto. But happily, it's not a tourist area that suffers a ballooning population in the summer and an empty winter. Instead, many of our down-country neighbours have chosen this area for their second homes: ski chalets, hobby farms, cottages and country homes. These year-round “weekenders” add to our resident population of about 27 thousand in south-east Grey county.

Scale:
80 kilometers/50 miles
